

Graphic Organizer for Research Findings

Students have read and summarized varied sources of information and are ready to answer their research questions. Developing a short written response to their research questions requires that they analyze their notes, prepare research conclusions, and evaluate how well they have answered their questions. This write-up may be useful as label copy (see Chapter 9), but it is not developed for this purpose. Rather, it is evidence of what students learned about their topic.

Another way for students to present their research findings is in a graphic organizer.
